ACT QUICKLY

Do the right thing at the right time.

Act quickly in time of danger.

In time of kidney danger, Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective. Ask your neighbor.

Plenty of Norway evidence of their worth.

Albert F. Prescott, shoemaker, Crockett's Bridge, Norway, says: "My kidneys gave out and I had backache so bad it put me past going for several days. I couldn't bend over, I was so stiff and lame. I was working in the ship yards at the time and I blame so much heavy lifting for the starting of my trouble. I had to get up several times during the night to pass the kidney secretions. I felt drowsy all the time. Finally I went to Stone's Drug Store and got three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. This remedy reached my case at once and after using three boxes, the trouble left me entirely. I have felt fine ever since. I can't recommend a better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills."

Prices 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Prescott had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

DOWN AND OUT

When a man is flush with a role, it seems to put a vim in his soul. He's spry and alert with a smile on his face. He puts him in shape for a different thing. You can tell by his step around the town. He's full of pep and his friends gather round. He wears his clothes and parts his hair. And walks with a cane like a millionaire. There's a lure to the strains of music so fine. Where diamonds glisten and lights brightly shine.

He's soon in the whirl and doing the jazz. But his role as a rule is the best friend he has. For when he's broke it's a different thing. He feels like a bird with a broken wing. He's duped and hampered and loses his pep. Perhaps he's been duped like the humble and meek.

And the frigid old world froze him out, so to speak. His pocket-book may have been picked on. He's out of his uppers and nobody cares. Man, it is said, is worse than a beast. They don't help the one that needs it the least. Your son or my son some day it may be. May call at some castle with an honest plea. And ask for a chance to lie down his head. In want or in want of a crust of bread.

He may have been put to the most rigid test. He's here beneath the stars to lie down with the best. He's leered at and scoffed at and cast to one side. He's drifting along like a skiff with the tide. Dame fortune smiles with many charms. And welcomes fame with outstretched arms. For lack of friendship and kind deeds shown. Just give him a good sound slap on the back. And say, "Old Man, you are game at that. You may be out of luck, "Old Man," But you are never "Down and Out."

TAXATION AND HIGH COST OF LIVING

Boston a great Irish city where graft in times past has flourished, under non-partisan business administration, has a tax rate this year of only $24.70 on $1000. That is a good example of the management of men of brains and capacity. Where men of small capacity, chiefly interested in holding down a soft job, backed by a crowd who derive special benefits through their control, run affairs, up goes the tax rate, and down goes efficient management. Three per cent in times like these is a high rate of taxation.—Editorial comment.

Everywhere comes the word that times are growing harder and harder and more and more laborers are being thrown out of employment, and wages are being cut down. Let the retail profiteers flourish.—Comment.

"Let us get down to brass tacks. There is no reason or sense in twelve cent milk as low as grain products are. The South Paris Creamery, it is said, begins Dec. 1st to buy milk on the cream basis. This will have the tendency to lower the prices but the 'wires may be down' for the retailers."—A Consumer.

"The prices of building materials are abnormally high. Are the 'wires down' too with the retail dealers? There are people who want to build or make repairs, but they won't do it till prices drop down to a reasonable figure."—A Consumer.

After the war closed representatives of the great industries of the country should have met and settled upon what ought to be a normal basis of prices and wages. Then there would have been little or no shock to business, and it would have saved the cut-throat situation of today.

The decision of Judge John F. Morrill of the supreme court granting an injunction against the strikers in the mills at Livermore Falls and at Rumford Falls, and preventing them from interfering in any way even by "picketing" with men who wish to work, is a great event in the labor situation in Maine. The day when the "walking delegate" can order strikes or control the labor situation is passing. The open shop is coming grandly to the front. Justice Morrill is one of the ablest members of the Supreme Court of Maine. He was educated as a Democrat in politics, but Governor Milliken made no mistake when he appointed him as a member of our highest court.

PARIS HILL

Edward L. Parris
Edward Loudon Parris, one of the best known citizens of this town and a member of one of its leading families, died Thursday at his home, at the age of 84 years.

During his active years he was a lawyer in New York city and at one time he was assistant district attorney for the city and county of New York.
On his retirement from business Mr. Parris returned to Maine residing at the Parris homestead at Paris Hill. He had been in feeble health for several years.
Mr. Parris was the son of Virgil D. and Columbia (Rawson) Parris and was born in Buckfield, Sept. 3, 1837, his parents moving to Paris when he was young. Mr. Parris always called Paris his home town. He graduated from Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., studied law and settled in New York city, where he became very successful.

Mr. Parris married in 1876 Mary I. DeBois of Fishkill, N. Y. Besides the wife, Mr. Parris is survived by two children, Marian, wife of Prof. William Roy Smith of Bryn Mawr College and herself a professor in the same college, and Edward Loudon, Jr., who since the close of the World war has remained at home, and two brothers Virgil K. of Paris and Percival J. of Philadelphia.

NORWAY AND VICINITY MID-SUMMER DAYS IN CASCO BAY

No. 6

One day I happened to meet on the boat, a man who had traveled over the country considerably, and in Canada. He had come up from the lower bay where he had been spending a short vacation, during which time he had been out on a deep sea fishing trip. I knew the gentleman he was with and was introduced. My new acquaintance enjoyed a good story and was something of a story-teller himself. On learning that I resided at Norway he said: "I will tell you a good story I think you will appreciate if you would like to hear it." This language sounded so much like that used in "Roughing It," on a certain memorable occasion that I replied with a laugh: "Yes, Horace Greeley passed there once. He said to"—he interrupted, "This is no Mark Twain story, it actually happened." I was getting interested and told him to proceed.

"I was invited, by a knight of the road," he began, "to a club room in one of the little hamlets down on the coast. A company had recently been organized there to boom the place as a summer resort and to sell lots from a tract, which had been acquired, fronting on the water. I and my companion had begun a game of cribbage. Just then there came into the room a youngish well dressed man, who though a stranger to those present, was evidently known to a drummer. He inquired for one of the prominent members of the club and was told that he was out with a party looking at some shore lots, but would soon be back and that he had better sit down and wait.

Among those present was an individual whom no one liked. This as you know frequently happens in a club room and he is often a great nuisance. He is tolerated for no one wants to tell him that his room is better than his company. This disagreeable individual, thinking the stranger might wish to purchase a lot, and having some to sell, introduced excellent ones which he would sell at a bargain. The stranger apparently was not interested and again inquired how much longer he would probably have to wait to meet the man he had called to see. He was told that it couldn't be a great while as he had been gone out some time when the stranger called.

"The disagreeable man to entertain him began to tell stories. My companion whispered to me that they were some old 'gags' formerly heard in the barber shop. We noticed that the stranger was bored. He had that faraway look in his eyes indicative of a lack of interest, and desire to yawn. At every fresh gag he opened his mouth the wider and became more and more impatient. At last the club door opened and his friend came in, telling him that the stranger had been looking out into the street." The story-teller had risen to his feet and glared at the stranger. "What in hell," he muttered, "No, no," said the stranger interrupting, "It wasn't there at all, I tell you. It was up in Norway, Maine, one of the smartest towns in New England and at one of the best hotels in the country—" but the rest of what he said was lost in the general howl of laughter that went up from the persons in the room, during which the disagreeable individual hastily departed.

We had sat at Custom House wharf and were crowding the gangway as he finished his story. "We have some good story tellers in Norway and very good anecdotes worth relating," I replied, "and"—but he was out of hearing in the surging mass hurrying on to the street.

W. H. Center's field of dahlias at the farm was a sight worth seeing. It was in plain view of all the cottagers and visitors too and from the landing. The flowers were of large size and of all colors and hues.

Mr. Augustus Stevens had a smaller and better protected lot on the southwestern part of the island. He had some rarer varieties of dahlias, two large beds of gladioli. I have never seen such beautiful colored tints of the latter flower as in Mr. Stevens' garden. I never before had understood its rare beauty.

G. F. Whitman.

Temporarily Detained in Montreal Hotel John Walker, Poland Springs and Norway, is in much given to fretting over things as they come along. He isn't down right foolish, indolent or lazy but accepts conditions with such stoical indifference as to border on the humorous.

On his last trip to Montreal he stopped at one of the small hotels and was interviewed by "a collector" before he got his shoes shined and grip unpacked. He was asked to pay $205.00 burial expenses of a relative. John beat not an eyebrow, neither turned pale or seemed excited but quietly asked, "which one of my relatives has passed away?"

The dejected collector explained as much as he could and said the payment had been long neglected and he'd been on the watch for him for many months and the time for settlement had arrived.

Mr. Walker slowly and carefully examined the bill and handing it back pleaded poverty saying he had just arrived from Chicago was "short" and being a stranger in the city he'd be unable to get the money therefore he must be excused and ask an extension of time on so just and honorable claim that should have been settled months ago.

The collector eyed him seriously for a time and drew from his pocket a massive document adorned with red seals and tied up in ribbon and the following conversation took place:

"Ain't your name John Walker?"

"Yes."

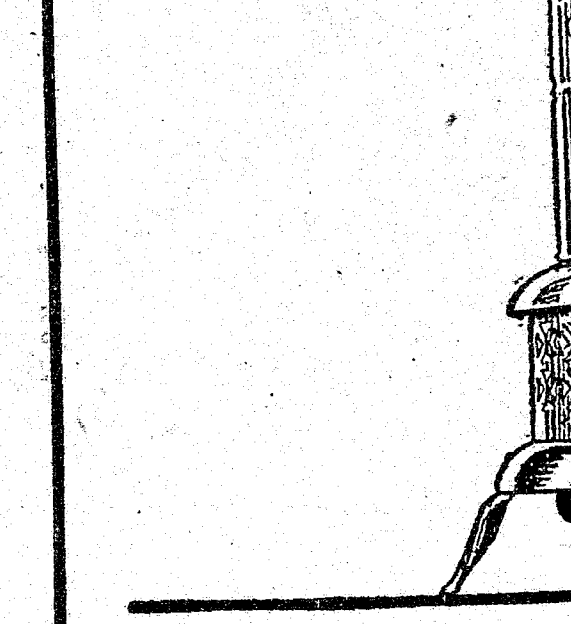

"You are from the State?"

"Yes."

"You admit this is a just bill," waving it so as to attract attention of everybody in the hotel lobby, "and you had six hundred dollars when you left Chicago—"

"I'll have to detain you, sir."

"Well," was John's quiet reply, "You'll have to get an H. into my name or strike one out of those papers before you can take me to any bar other than the one connected with this house. I do seriously object to paying the funeral expenses of the departed relative of John H. Walker, whose acquaintance I have not yet made, even if both of us live in the States. I'm the John Walker of the Poland Springs Hotel Co. of South Poland, Maine, U. S. A. whose pure spring water encircles the civilized por-

Perfection Heater Contest

When winter storms come, a touch of extra heat is often needed. On the side where the wind blows it's nearly always drafty and chilly. This winter—wherever the wind searches—put a Perfection Oil Heater in its path. It will keep the whole room up to "comfort-point" temperature. The cost of this extra heat is small, and its use enables you to keep a slower fire in the main heating plant. In many instances the Perfection will soon pay for itself by the coal it saves.

Millions of homes use Perfection Oil Heaters. Ask your dealer to show you one.

For best results use Socony kerosene.

PHINEAS' PHILOSOPHY

By Win Kimball

"Fixing the Auto"
Havin' yer Auto fixin' is gettin' to be a national pastime, you can fix it several different ways, for instance, run in to a stone wall, run it into a garage or try to run away from a Motor Cop. If yer run it into a garage you will get it fixed so as yer will have to run it into another garage before long an A. D. Infinitum, whatever this is. When yer go around to the garage men an try to find out what is the matter with yer car they all tell you a different story an yer get so as yer don't know what to believe. If one expert can't do the job he knows some one who can do it better than the feller some one told yer to go to to have a good job done.

Jest to be safe an free from worry yer take out insurance so that if yer damage any body they cant worry yer. Like as not the first thing that happens is that yer run into some one that dont carry no insurance. He shuld worry. I figger that the man what drives a car ought to go to church more often then he used to before he became a autoist, cause if he dont he will forget how to use good words in place of his new variety of cuss words that he has acquired.

Ther is one consolashun, an that is that, yer have a excuse to get out of workin around the house for wifey so as yer can tinkin on the auto. Some evenins when things are a bit slow around the home yer have good abilit to make it so as yer can get out with the boys for a game et cetera, by kissin little wifey an sayin "Well I guess I will go down to the Garage an fix up the old bus for next sundays trip." Dont ofrigt to drop into the garage on yer way back an sort of get yer hands dirty so as yer can show wifey yer primary facie evidences.

I hope no wifey reads this last, as above, cause this is the only abibl a man has got left now that prohibition has come an all his down town clubs is closed. Yours trooly, Phin.

COMPARISON OF PRICES

Pittsburgh, Pa. Nov. 14, 1921

Dear Advertiser:
Please find inclosed P. O. order for $1.50 to pay my subscription for another year. I think you are down to before the war rates. My two home county papers at Hurley and Parker, S. D. raised their war rate subscriptions to $2.50 a year each and have not dropped the price yet.

Two years ago I sold my corn at $1.30 and my oats at about 60 cents a bushel about 1000 bushels of each. My last years corn crop sold for about 35 cents a bushel and my oats 20 cents. This years price is now about 25 cents for corn and 17 cents for oats, with high priced coal, no wonder that the farmers in the west are burning corn.

25 above has been our coldest weather so far. Snow yesterday and rain today. Lots of excitement last week. Marshal Foch put in a full day Thursday viewing the big city of Pittsburgh and all day Friday, "Armistice Day" the street was alive with marching men, women and children.

The Foot and Walker Line is still popular with me and in order to keep my digestion good and my walking pins in good order I often take a stroll of 5 to 7 miles. —Joseph Andrews

DID PAIN DISTURB YOUR SLEEP?

THE pain and torture of rheumatism can be quickly relieved by an application of Sloan's Liniment. It brings warmth, ease and comfort and lets you sleep soundly. Always have a bottle handy and apply when you feel the first twinge. It penetrates without rubbing. It's splendid to take the pain out of tired, aching muscles, sprains and strains, stiff joints, and lame backs. For forty years pain's enemy. Ask your neighbor.

At all druggists—35c, 70c, $1.40.
Sloan's Liniment (Pain's Enemy)

A REASON

Why you should build your

Winter home on a hill.

The Overcoat you buy this year will in all probability be with you this time next year, also this time in 1923.

If you buy a poor garment now you'll need a good one in January, 1922. So why not do it right in the first place—the difference in the cost between the wheat and the chaff isn't enough to talk about.

A good, all wool, shape-retaining Overcoat that will dress you up and wear you well—keep its shape and be in shape for you to wear in 1923 and 1924 and we dare say in 1925 will cost you but a trifle more than one that will be good for only one season.

Now then, if you read this advertisement—which by the way is as true as steel—and then insist on buying a Cheap Coat—then there's nothing more that we can do—is there?

WHAT TO DO IF YOU LAY UP YOUR CAR THIS WINTER

Take or send your battery to the Willard Service Station to be stored until you need it. The additional security and convenience of leaving this to us far outweighs the moderate expense.

Dry storage is recommended for all batteries with wood separators, which have given a summer's service.

The plates will be disassembled and carefully stored in a dry place. In the spring, new separators are put in and the battery charged and put in condition for service.

Wet storage is recommended only for the Still Better Willard Battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation, or for a wood insulated battery that has been in service only three or four months.

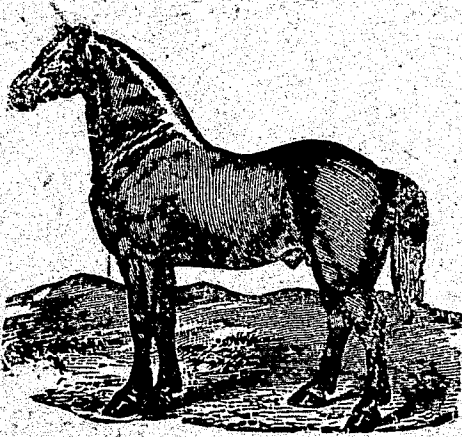

If you do not intend to run your car this winter, write, telephone or call upon the Willard Service Station immediately for full particulars about the storage of your battery.

IT TOOK THE JOY OUT OF HIS LIFE

Had Indigestion So Bad He Could Not Eat Anything Without Suffering Afterwards

"Tanlac has relieved me of a bad case of indigestion and rheumatism that had kept me in misery for five years," declares Charles Farwell, an employee of the Androscoggin and Kennebec Railroad living at 26 State St., Augusta, Me.

"I suffered from indigestion so bad it took all the joy out of life. I couldn't eat a thing without having terrible pains in the pit of my stomach and the gas pressed around my heart until I thought it would stop beating. At night I often woke up fighting for breath. I also suffered a great deal from rheumatism, especially in my legs and back, and the awful pain together with the gas on my stomach, made it impossible for me to get very much rest at night."

"Tanlac seemed to be exactly what I needed for I felt better right from the start and soon had a fine appetite and could eat anything I wanted and never suffer a particle from pains in the stomach, and I haven't been troubled with gas since I finished my first bottle. All signs of rheumatism have left me and I haven't an ache of a pain of any sort in my body. I'm not a bit nervous now and sleep all night without ever waking up. Although I'm working unusually hard just now, I feel fine all the time."

Tanlac is sold by A. L. Clark Drug Co., Norway; Stovell Bros., Locke's Mills; R. E. Pinkham, East Waterford; W. H. Brown, East Stoneham; Heald, Stearns & Kimball, Lovell; H. L. Hutchins Co., North Fryeburg; L. R. Rounds & Co., Waterford, and P. G. Barrett, Welchville, Me.
